Frequently Asked Questions:

What is the origin of The Divine Praises and why do we recite it as the recessional at the end of daily Mass?

According to catholicprayers.com the Divine Praises were composed by a Jesuit priest named Luigi Felici to make reparation for blasphemy and profane language. They are traditionally recited during Benediction, but can be prayed privately or other group settings. Bishop Toolen began the practice of reciting the Divine Praises at the end of daily Mass for protection against hurricanes.
